FACT: 80% of the civil legal needs of the poor are not being met.
-The American Bar Association

Who’s Left Behind?

- Women and children victimized by domestic violence do not get the legal help they desperately need.
- Our returning soldiers fail to get the support they need with housing, employment and health issues.
- Families are forced into homelessness by wrongful eviction and preventable foreclosures.
- The elderly and poor have no recourse when they fall prey to scams in the marketplace
- The disabled are discriminated against without the representation they need to protect their rights.

These are the people Equal Justice America goes to bat for every day by putting law students and lawyers to work for legal aid programs across the country!

Equal Justice America is an independent non-profit 501(c)(3) corporation established in 1993. EJA has become a national leader in providing opportunities for law students to work with organizations that deliver civil legal services to those most in need. Our efforts expose a new generation of future lawyers to the urgency for pro bono assistance to our most vulnerable citizens. Students at more than 100 law schools now have the opportunity to take part in the Equal Justice America Fellowship Program.
Fellowships

Equal Justice America has sponsored fellowships for more than 4,300 law students to work with over 500 legal services organizations across the country. Interning under the supervision of experienced attorneys, our fellowship recipients have provided crucial assistance to low-income clients struggling through the complexities of our civil justice system.

Grants

EJA has paid out more than $11 million in grants and has provided approximately 1.5 million hours of free legal services with programs that work to protect the rights of the poor.

Post-graduate Fellowships

In September 2002, we began funding two-year post-graduate EJA Fellowships, launching the public interest careers of outstanding young attorneys. More than $1.4 million has been committed to these post-graduate fellowships. Equal Justice America has awarded a two year $130,000 post-graduate Immigration Fellowship to a Northwestern law graduate who started work last fall at LAF in Chicago. New EJA Post-graduate Immigration Fellowships will soon be announced for Boston and Washington, DC.

Disability Rights Clinic

In September 2000, Pace University Law School established the Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic with a major grant and an ongoing commitment from EJA. We have contributed more than $600,000 to the EJA Clinic, which has become an integral part of the Law School's highly regarded clinical program.

Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) Project

In the Fall of 1997, Equal Justice America began sponsoring the Yale Law School Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) Project at the New Haven Legal Assistance Association (NHLAA). The program puts Yale law students to work assisting battered women in obtaining Temporary Restraining Orders against their abusers. Susan Garcia Nofi, the Director of NHLAA, calls the EJA sponsored TRO Project "one of the most successful student projects to come out of the law school" and "a demonstration project for law schools and legal services’ programs throughout the country."
“Support from EJA was an important factor that enabled Colleen [Tennent] to work with us at the Equal Justice Center this summer. I believe this experience in turn will have a decisively positive impact on her future as a lawyer and on her future contribution to the cause of justice. Moreover, based on our experience with Colleen and many other summer interns we have deployed with EJA’s support, I can attest that Colleen is just the latest in a long succession of examples that demonstrate how EJA changes lives and helps make our world more just and sustainable.”

Bill Beardall, Executive Director

“Throughout her time at [the Children’s Law Center of California], Christina [Han] showed real dedication to the clients she worked with and a passion for helping individuals and families in crisis. She always had candy or toys on hand to make the court experience a little brighter for the kids. She would remember to note their birthdays and make sure to give them a call. She also was remarkably efficient and hard working. She was often in the office well before me and would work through lunch, getting tasks that I expected to take days finished in a matter of hours. I so appreciate Christina’s work here, and Equal Justice America making it possible for her to take on an unpaid internship at CLC. I hope and expect that she will return to CLC as an attorney and that she will continue to make a huge difference in our clients’ lives through her advocacy.”

Cynthia Widjora, Esq., MSW

“On a personal note, I am particularly glad to know that Alex [Jouravliov] received this funding because I am also a previous EJA fellow, having received a summer stipend in 2010 to work at a legal services organization. Such funding is critical for law students interested in pursuing public interest work, given that such organizations have limited budgets and aren’t able to provide funding to summer students directly. Thank you very much for your work and for your support of Alex and the Farmworker Legal Assistance Clinic at Cornell Law School.”

Briana Beltran, Clinical Teaching Fellow

“Thank you for making Tim [Ryan’s] work possible for us! We benefited enormously from his presence with us this summer and we believe that, in turn, we provided an opportunity for expansion of his knowledge and legal skills at this same time. The Migrant Legal Action Program has greatly valued our partnership with EJA through the years. We especially appreciate your interest in supporting work on behalf of very significantly disadvantaged groups, including our client community. We look forward to our continuing relationship.”

Roger Rosenthal, Executive Director
“Ms. [Amanda] Gobus is a true self-starter. When presented with projects [at the Legal Services of South Central Michigan], Ms. Gobus would deliver not only a great finished project, but great ideas on how to proceed down the line. She did not shy away from difficult tasks or situations, and our permanent staff quickly became comfortable giving her complex and sensitive assignments. Ms. Gobus was exactly who we would expect as an EJA Fellow. Committed to social justice, curious, hardworking, and empathetic.”

Nicole Shannon, Supervising Attorney

“In times when law students worry about their employment prospects, I know that Ian’s drive, work ethic, humility, and mind distinguishes him from his peers. I, myself, have benefitted from fellowships like the Equal Justice America fellowship and know that the fellowships allowed me to enter public service directly from law school. I am confident that any organization blessed enough to have Ian [Padilla Jong] as an intern and future attorney will benefit from the training and exposure to issues facing low-income clients he received in his summer at [East Bay Community Law Center].”

Theo L. Cuisin, Staff Attorney and Clinical Supervisor

“Law Clerks like Jeremy [Chen] play an important role in helping to run the legal clinic, and grants from organizations like Equal Justice America make it possible for many of them to contribute to sustaining the critically important work that we do. We appreciate the commitment Jeremy has shown to the Clinic and the clients he has assisted. I personally would like to thank you for supporting Jeremy’s work with Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights of the San Francisco Bay Area.”

Keith L. Wurster, Senior Litigation Attorney

“Amanda [Wilmsen’s] work product was enriched by her interest in employment law and passion for social justice work. This was best exemplified in her research efforts on a nuanced issue regarding reinstatement under New York Civil Service Law in advance of mediation of a client’s disability discrimination claim in federal court. Amanda diligently explored this novel question leaving no stone unturned. Amanda’s research proved vital and she served as a helpful participant in the negotiations of this issue. Amanda was an asset to our team [at the New York Legal Assistance Group] this summer and we are grateful to EJA for making this internship possible.”

Nina Martinez, Staff Attorney

“Many thanks to Equal Justice America for sponsoring Omeed Firooz’s summer internship at Community Legal Services of Philadelphia (CLS). As both a legal services attorney and a former Equal Justice America summer fellow, I appreciate your organization’s willingness to invest in the futures of aspiring public interest lawyers.”

Catherine M. Martin, Staff Attorney
EQUAL JUSTICE AMERICA
Law Student Testimonials

“By providing funding for this summer internship [at Greater Boston Legal Services], Equal Justice America has helped make such an experience possible for not only me, but many other equally dedicated and inspired future attorneys. It allows some of the brightest law students opportunities to remain financially afloat while passionately assisting others who are in great need of legal assistance. In this day and age, assisting clients of low-income or minority backgrounds has never been more critical, and I am grateful organizations like Equal Justice America are able to play a vital part.”

Victor Gibson
Boston University
School of Law

“I fear that any words of appreciation will not do justice to the laudable work of the great team behind the Equal Justice America Fellowship. If during law school we all dream to be our best in the legal practice, to always fight the good fight and to never deny legal services to those in dire need, the reality, unfortunately, sometimes fails far away from our expectations. When demand for legal services in the low-income communities is high, but the funding is scarce or threaten to be cut off, practicing public interest law right after law school becomes an illusion or a struggle. I am so appreciative to Equal Justice America for fighting against the odds and making it possible for so many law students to pursue their choice of practice and work in public interest law right after law school.”

Julia Caizer
Georgia State University
College of Law

“Early last Spring I was offered an amazing opportunity to work for the Coalition to Abolish Slavery and Trafficking (CAST). I have always had an interest in combating human trafficking and I had never had the opportunity to serve that particular population in the past. Needless to say I was quite thrilled when I received an offer to intern as a law clerk at CAST for the summer of 2017. I was quickly faced with a daunting realization, I did not have the means to support myself while working full time for free over the summer. I come from a low income background and can only attend law school because I was fortunate enough to receive generous scholarships. The internship at CAST was quickly looking too expensive for me to consider. Because CAST is a non-profit organization they naturally cannot afford to pay legal interns for their services. In addition, I would need to drive an hour and a half to get to work each day, pay for my own food as well as pay for parking at a fifteen dollar a day rate. To offset those costs I applied to become an Equal Justice America fellow for the summer of 2017 and was awarded funds which allowed me to pursue my passion and work at CAST this past summer, and for that I am extremely grateful.”

Raymond Chavez
Loyola Law School
of Los Angeles

“I really appreciate Equal Justice America’s support for lawyers and law students to gain invaluable experience in public interest, and [Cabrini Green Legal Aid (CGLA)] is definitely one of the places that are enthusiastic about training public interest lawyers. CGLA removes legal barriers for a great number of people every day, and it is my pleasure and privilege to be able to contribute to this mission.”

Chantel Chiu
University of Illinois
College of Law
“Most of Pisgah’s clients walk in the door with many needs, only some of which have legal remedies. Empathy is essential. A referral to other organizations is often the answer. Advice [from] one human being to another can make a world of difference. I have been inspired to continue pursuing a career in defense of consumers and homeowners and against those who wield power irresponsibly. Thank you for your support this summer and contributing to a just end for each of these stories.”

“I wanted to say how grateful I am for the opportunity to receive financial assistance from Equal Justice America to pursue my summer internship in the public interest field. As a first generation law student it has meant a lot to me that your organization sees the value in funding law students’ work in the public interest field. This summer I had the honor and privilege of working with the amazing folks at the Education Law Center here in Philadelphia. As an intern at ELC I was tasked with helping to manage the statewide help hotline, doing research for ongoing litigation and public policy, and brainstorming innovative ways to push forward the mission of the Education Law Center. It was an invaluable experience and further solidified my commitment to public interest and helping low-income communities.”

“My summer internship is crucial for my transition towards a career in public interest legal work. The internship was, however, more important to the clients I served [at California Rural Legal Assistance]. The stories and challenges of these clients demonstrate the high demand of legal services regarding our impoverished California agricultural workers. Equal Justice America addresses the demand through its law student fellowships. I am proud of my summer work and proud to have represented EJA by serving the civil legal needs of low-income working clients. I will continue to represent the EJA vision in my service as an aspiring public interest lawyer.”

“I would like to first thank all of those working to make the Equal Justice America fellowship possible. I am honored to be an EJA fellow, and I assumed reception of the fellowship as a serious responsibility to perform to my fullest capacity in my summer position [at the Legal Services of South Central Michigan]. Being chosen as a fellow meant more than just provision of financial means; it meant I had a duty to the donors, those at EJA who reviewed my initial application, and to the clients I served.”

“I am grateful to Equal Justice America for helping me financially with the fellowship that allowed me to do the public interest work I am most passionate about while living in New York City. The experiences I had [at Fordham University School of Law’s Immigrant Rights Clinic] were affirming that I am in the correct field, and that there is work that I find meaningful within it. Thank you for everything.”

Equal Justice America Awards Two Year $130,000 Immigration Fellowship at LAF in Chicago
I was inspired to pursue a career advocating for immigrants’ rights in 2007, when I first worked with immigrant women in a legal clinic for victims of domestic violence. I volunteered at the clinic as an opportunity to hone my Spanish language skills and provide translation and interpretation services. However, the experience quickly became so much more, as my clients told me their stories and I learned how legal assistance and immigration relief could break the cycle of abuse.

Last summer, I interned with LAF’s Immigrants and Workers’ Rights (IWR) Practice Group. As part of that internship, I handled an immigration case where my client’s abusive partner threatened her with her immigration status. My client and I communicated in French over the course of several interviews. When I gathered the details of her story, I learned how her partner confined her to the house, using threats and force to prevent her from leaving. Based on those interviews, we determined the best strategy for obtaining immigration relief. She wanted to learn English, find work, and support her child. LAF’s assistance gave her the opportunity to build a safe and stable life for her family.

I also joined the IWR group on one of its many trips reaching out to low-wage workers and immigrants in some of the most remote and inaccessible parts of the state. The group visited over 50 sites across Illinois in two days, including public work sites, housing sites, labor camps, and community organizations. We met hundreds of workers and saw firsthand their deplorable living and employment conditions. We spoke with them about their legal rights and gave them much needed information about accessing resources. Several sites were so remote that workers could complete their work term without ever interacting with anyone outside of their employment, making these low-wage workers’ conditions ripe for exploitation. For many workers, our outreach was the first time they learned they had any rights. This is one of the fundamental ways IWR works to combat issues such as human trafficking, wage theft, and many other types of abuse and exploitation.

It has been ten years since I first realized that protecting immigrants’ rights was a way I could apply my passion for human rights and language skills to empower people living in poverty. Now, at this critical time, when access to legal services and the rights of vulnerable communities are under constant threat, I am honored to bring my commitment to advocating for immigrants to LAF as an EJA Fellow.
“I am beyond grateful to Equal Justice America for the opportunity to launch my career as a public interest attorney specializing in immigration at LAF. Most of my clients navigate their lives without documentation or status. Many are subjected to unfair labor practices, intimidation, and violence, and threatened with deportation by their employer, partner, or trafficker. My work providing Immigration relief will make my clients safer at work and at home, and will keep their families united.”

I. SUMMARY AND ACHIEVEMENTS

U Visa, T Visa, VAWA, and I-751

In the first three months of my fellowship, I have primarily worked on U visa, T visa, and VAWA applications. These are affirmative, administrative petitions filed with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) on behalf of clients, for immigration relief. These forms of relief were created under the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act in 2000 and protect non-citizen victims of serious crimes, human trafficking, and domestic violence. My clients are eligible based on having suffered substantial mental or physical abuse due to the crime that is the basis of their petition.

I have also been working on I-751 petitions to remove conditions on conditional residence. These clients were married to and petitioned for residency with a US citizen, but since filing jointly they have been subject to domestic violence. This petition allows such clients to move forward in the process individually.

I prepared two U visa applications for filing under Lisa Palumbo's, my direct supervisor's, supervision, which we filed with USCIS on behalf of clients in the “Egg Case.” These clients were summarily fired and prevented from unionizing by their employer, a local egg packing company. For this case I worked with clients to prepare this complicated application, which requires unique evidence to address their harm on a tight deadline.

I am working on 10 U visas, one T visa, three VAWA, and two I-751 applications that are each at various stages in the process between case acceptance and filing. The T visa application that I am about to file has been on behalf of a minor who was coerced into sex trafficking. Her application has required extensive work and will include three accompanying derivative applications for family members who are eligible for immigration relief through her. There are two additional family members that I will also file for as derivatives. In addition, I have worked directly with the LAF Family Law Attorney who is representing the client for an order of protection, to coordinate work with the client. I attended the Order of Protection hearing and assisted with preparation of some of the possible witnesses for that hearing.

U Visa Certifications

A critical step in the process of preparing a U visa application is the U Visa Certification Form. U visa applications require a certification by law enforcement of the applicant’s victimization and cooperation with the investigation or prosecution of the crime. By obtaining these certifications, an applicant can move forward with the U visa application itself. These requests can be routine before some law enforcement agencies, or require significant legal argument before others.

I requested six U visa certifications from agencies including the Chicago Police Department, the Cook County State’s Attorney’s Office, and the Circuit Court of Cook County. Of those certifications I have requested, five have been signed and one is still pending. The process requires obtaining records regarding the cooperation, such as police reports, case dispositions, and orders of protection; strategic decisions about where to request the certification from when there is more than one law enforcement agency involved; strong writing skills to clearly present the legal argument for why the agency should sign the certification form.

Employment Discrimination Complaint

I filed an employment discrimination complaint with the City of Chicago Commission on Human Relations on behalf of a client who was subjected to pervasive sexual harassment and sexual orientation discrimination at work. The treatment he was subjected to at work will also be the basis of a U visa certification that I will request from the same agency.

Initial Intake

Each week I conduct about two new intakes. I call potential clients to assess their eligibility for our services and for immigration relief. About two thirds of the clients I work with are Spanish-speaking. I interview them to gather information about the crime that they have experienced, how they have cooperated with law enforcement regarding this crime, and to understand their immigration history and possible barriers to eligibility for immigration relief.

I will then request that potential clients send me documentation related to the crime that is the basis of their eligibility. If they do not have such documents, I will request them from local police departments through a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, or obtain copies of court dispositions and court files.

Case Acceptance Meeting

Our immigration group meets for about two hours every Wednesday for our Case Acceptance Meeting (CAM) where we share announcements, present new cases from intake to determine whether we will accept or reject, and bring questions about cases for group discussion. My team includes my supervisor, four staff attorneys including myself, and two paralegals.

Weekly Meetings with Supervisor

I have a 30-minute meeting scheduled every Tuesday to sit down one-on-one with my supervisor. While she is generally available to questions as they come up throughout the week, this is an opportunity to discuss issues that have come up in a case, best practice questions, and do a general case review.

Client Meetings

Once we accept a case at CAM, I schedule an initial meeting with my clients. This allows me to establish an attorney-client relationship that will make my representation and advocacy more successful. In this meeting, I discuss the facts of my client’s case more thoroughly, copy critical documents, and explain what to expect as we prepare the application together. As with initial intakes, most of my client meetings are conducted in Spanish.

Investigation and Document Collection

I conduct legal research and collect documents as the initial steps in preparing applications. My clients gather and provide me with the documents they have. I make FOIA requests, request court dispositions and background checks. I evaluate the narrative of cooperation as it appears in the police report or the order of protection. I provide clients with suggestions for where to obtain supporting letters, and provide them with guides to assist the friends, family, and domestic violence counselors that will write letters.

Client Declaration

A requirement for each of the applications I have worked on is the client’s declaration in which they describe the crime or abuse they have suffered and the effects of that abuse. I explain to my clients what the declaration should include, give them advice for how to begin the writing process, and help them set deadlines for sending me a draft declaration. I will then translate the declaration into English if the client is Spanish-speaking, and help the client fill in any gaps that I find in their narrative. This is a difficult and time-consuming process that is often the most difficult part of the application for clients.

Referrals

My work has also included legal and social work referrals within LAF and to other agencies. I have referred clients internally to our Children and Families Practice Group for assistance with family law issues. I have also referred clients to our Client Support Services group for assistance from our social worker. External referrals have been made for legal services when we are unable to accept the case or when the client presents with another legal issue with which LAF cannot assist.

Community Clinics

LAF runs several monthly legal clinics in the community with the support of pro bono partners. I have had the opportunity to volunteer with these clinics once this quarter, and plan to go again next quarter. This is an opportunity to meet clients where they are, in their community, and to assist the pro bono partners when immigration matters come up or Spanish-speaking clients need assistance with interpretation.

II. CLIENT STORIES

Until they are granted deferred action or a visa, most of my clients navigate their lives without documentation or status. Many are subjected to unfair labor practices, intimidation, and violence, and threatened with deportation by their employer, partner, or trafficker. Immigration relief will make my clients safer at work and at home, and will keep their families united. Some of the crimes committed against my clients include: criminal sexual assault, sexual assault of a minor, aggravated battery, domestic violence (physical, emotional, and sexual abuse), stalking, sexual harassment, sexual orientation discrimination, obstruction of justice, witness tampering, and sex trafficking of a minor.

Until they are granted deferred action or a visa, most of my clients navigate their lives without documentation or status. Many are subjected to unfair labor practices, intimidation, and violence, and threatened with deportation by their employer, partner, or trafficker. Immigration relief will make my clients safer at work and at home, and will keep their families united.
Erica

Erica is a mother of three children - two are US citizens and one would have been eligible for DACA had the program been reauthorized. Erica was waiting for the bus early in the morning, and when none came for some time she decided to walk. As she walked, a car with three men inside began following her. The next thing she knew, she was grabbed from behind and thrown to the ground. Two of the men had jumped out of the car and attempted to sexually assault her. Erica was able to escape and report the incident to the police. She was afraid to speak with police and provide a statement to the court because she did not know what might happen to her as an undocumented immigrant. Despite her fear, she cooperated with the police and the prosecution of the crime.

This crime occurred 14 years ago on her daughter's first birthday, and Erica has been haunted by it ever since. For the first time, Erica will receive counseling services as a result of a referral that LAF's social worker and I made on her behalf. Erica is on a path toward a safer and more stable life for herself and her children as a U visa applicant. I obtained a U visa certification from the police department to which she reported, and will file a U visa application on her behalf. With my assistance, Erica has initiated the process to ensure her ability to provide for and remain united with her family.

Julie

Julie is a 17-year-old girl from Mexico. In order to get away from a dangerous and abusive relationship, she decided to visit family in the United States for a couple months. She hoped that with some time she could distance herself from that abuse, and then return to a safer and more stable situation. She took this goal seriously as she is the single parent of her young daughter. The family member that hosted her in the U.S., however, began grooming Julie and coerced her to engage in sex work. She manipulated Julie into thinking that this was the only way she could provide for her daughter and give her a good life. The trafficker intimidated Julie, threatened her with her immigration status, and controlled her with tactics such as keeping the money she earned. Julie felt hopeless and did not know how to get out of her trafficking situation.

Julie was eventually able to escape her trafficking situation and was referred to LAF. As a result, Julie has obtained a Civil No Contact Order protecting her from the trafficker for the next two years. Julie now has a case manager who connects her with benefits and services available to victims of trafficking. I am about to file her T visa application, so that she may remain in the U.S. to access these benefits and services, and stay to cooperate in the investigation and prosecution of this crime.

Luis

Luis is my 25-year-old client who came to the U.S. from Mexico when he was less than one year old. For about the last four years, a co-worker subjected Luis to sexual harassment that included vulgar threats, name-calling, and homophobic slurs on a daily basis. The employer failed to correct the situation when Luis and other employees reported to supervisors, and the sexual harassment escalated until it eventually became physical.

Luis now has new employment, and hopes to hold the former employer accountable by reporting the human rights violations he endured. On his behalf, I have filed an employment discrimination complaint with the City of Chicago Commission on Human Relations (CCHR). With my assistance, Luis seeks justice as well as immigration relief on the basis of these violations. Luis was eligible for and granted Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA), which protected him from deportation and provided him with work authorization, but DACA is no longer an option for him. Luis is now eligible for a U visa, and with LAF's assistance he is on a path to a safer life at work and in the only country he has ever known as home.
III. SUCCESS STORIES

The process of obtaining deferred action or a visa through U visa, T visa, and VAWA petitions can be a very long one, so the life of these cases often lasts several years. For example, it currently takes about two to three years to receive any response from USCIS on a U visa application, and the visa itself is not granted until about five years after the date of submission. Thus, in the first few months of my fellowship, my success stories will focus on certifications signed and applications submitted, as well as other advocacy wins on issues as they arise in individual cases.

As outlined above, this quarter I have:

• Submitted two U visa applications;
• Filed one employment discrimination complaint with the City of Chicago Commission on Human Relations;
• Obtained five signed U visa certifications; and
• I am about to file one T visa application with three derivative applications.

IV. GOALS for January – March 2018

My overall goal in this fellowship is to prepare quality applications efficiently – avoiding delays later on if USCIS were to request further evidence, and submitting applications within three to four months from when we accept the case. I have been working toward this goal, and expect that my pace will improve in the second quarter with more experience drafting letters, filling out USCIS forms, and gathering supporting evidence.

In the next three months, my goal is to file the following applications based on my current cases:

• One T visa application (two additional derivative applications)
• Two I-751s
• Five U visas
• Two U visa certification requests
• Two VAWA petitions

I also expect that I will request additional U visa certifications based on new cases I am assigned in the next three months.

I plan to meet these goals by maintaining strong organization of my cases and current tasks, managing my time efficiently, and by working at a slightly faster pace now that I have more experience with some of these applications and the legal arguments that we are making. I will also continue to collaborate with colleagues as a resource to problem solve and strategize.

V. PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

The direct client interaction involved in my work has been an excellent opportunity for me to continue developing my Spanish language and communication skills in addition to general interviewing skills. Also, because much of my work involved writing affidavits and cover letters, I have been developing my writing skills and exploring how to be an advocate for my clients by being a strong writer.
Through CAM, I have observed the problem solving and strategic decision-making of my colleagues. It has helped me better understand the legal issues that come up in our work, where there is room for advocacy to make an impact in our clients’ cases, and get a broader view of the cases our team is handling beyond just those that I work on. Also, by conducting intakes and presenting those cases to my team for CAM, I am further developing my interviewing and presentation skills.

The one-on-one meetings with my supervisor have also been helpful in my professional development. I collect my questions and concerns throughout the week so that we can make the most of our scheduled time. Our meetings have helped me gauge my own progress, get insight from my supervisor about legal issues as well as how to balance doing client-centered work with managing a demanding caseload, and have also been an opportunity to ask administrative questions as I navigate a new position. The combination of her responsiveness by email or phone throughout the week, and our scheduled one-on-one meeting time, has made me feel very well supported in my work.

As I began my fellowship, critical steps in the process of my cases would sometimes overwhelm me. I understood how important particular tasks were to the outcome of the case, and felt especially aware of my inexperience, the combination of which made some of the work intimidating. I would delay working on certain tasks, such as drafting U visa certification request letters, when I felt I did not have enough information to get started or enough time to dedicate to them. However, in the last few weeks I have settled into the work and have felt more comfortable diving into my to-do list. I am moving my cases forward at a better pace while maintaining the attention to detail that it requires. I have become more efficient with some practice, applying my time management and organization skills daily.

VI. SUPERVISION and SUPPORT

Lauren is astute and hardworking, and has become a well-integrated member of IWR’s Immigration and Trafficking Projects. In addition to Lauren starting in the early fall, IWR had two additional paralegals and one attorney begin working, helping Lauren to learn a lot of new information at the same time as many of her colleagues. She has been very supportive of them, willing to take cases to be a strong and supportive team member, but also to put her skills to work right away. Her willingness to take on an “egg case” at the very start of her fellowship was impressive, and the case she was working on was very complicated. She handled the case very well and got all her work done in a timely manner.

Lauren fits in well because she is drawn to direct client service. She works well with clients, able to gather facts and help our clients understand the process in both a sensitive and efficient manner. She is not intimidated by the work and sees challenging cases as a way to enhance her skills and her knowledge. Although she suggested she was nervous about starting some tasks because she wasn’t sure if she had all the information, this was short-lived and Lauren is now much more comfortable with her tasks.
Needless to say, immigration law is very complex. Lauren is appreciating the nuances and demonstrates this more frequently as she presents cases at our case meetings, suggesting different ways to apply the facts or decide what to do in a particular case.

Lauren is very organized. Her weekly meetings always include a numbered list of her questions. She respects others’ time, which reflects that she also uses her time efficiently.

Lauren is a pleasure to have on staff. She is a great colleague; fun, supportive and hardworking. We and our clients are fortunate to have her here.

Dear Dan:

I am pleased to report to you the work that has been accomplished thanks to the generous on-going support of Equal Justice America. It is no exaggeration to say that this work would not have been possible without Equal Justice America’s commitment to our program.

The Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic has become an integral part of the Pace Law School’s outstanding clinical program. In all of our client representation clinics, the students are the lawyers, fully responsible for all aspects of the cases they handle. The clinics thus serve a dual role – the training of future lawyers and the provision of legal services to the underserved in Westchester County and its surroundings.

Since the Clinic was established at Pace Law School in 1999, 137 students have enrolled in the Clinic. They have assisted 277 clients in a wide range of litigation and transactional matters. Ninety-nine clients were represented in proceedings to become the guardians of their developmentally disabled adult relatives, usually children, but also grandchildren, siblings and nieces and nephews. With our help, 14 clients have also created special needs trusts for their children, and engaged in other specialized estate planning to ensure that the disabled person is able to benefit from any inheritance without losing government benefits. Sixty-five clients engaged in estate and life-time planning, by signing wills, health care proxies, living wills and powers of attorney – documents drafted by our students. Our students have handled the administration of 14 estates, some for the beneficiaries of wills that the Clinic had drafted.

Fifty-two cases involved access to government benefits including Social Security Disability benefits, SSI benefits, waivers of overpayments, Veteran’s Benefits and Medicaid benefits.

We have also assisted 10 clients who had filed discrimination cases pro se. Most of these cases were filed at the Westchester County Human Rights Commission where complainants must secure counsel in order to proceed once there has been a finding of probable cause. Four clients were assisted with tax matters and five with consumer matters.
Finally our students have assisted fourteen families obtain appropriate special education services for their school-age children.

For most of these clients, there was no other source of free legal services. None could afford pay for the required legal assistance. For our students, the experience gained from representing real clients with real problems has prepared them in ways that classroom learning cannot for their work as practicing attorneys.

All of us at Pace Law are most grateful for the continuing support of Equal Justice America and your personal commitment to our mission.

Sincerely yours,

Gretchen

Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic

John Jay Legal Services

Elisabeth Haub School of Law at Pace University

June 30, 2017
Introduction

Completing its seventeenth year of operation, the Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law at Pace University continues its dual mission of training future lawyers and providing free legal services to low income persons with disabilities and their families.

The Law School's clinical offerings, under the umbrella of John Jay Legal Services, enable students to gain proficiency in lawyering skills while representing clients pursuant to a Student Practice Order issued by the Appellate Division, Second Department of the New York State Supreme Court. Under supervision of full-time clinical faculty, students enrolled in clinical courses perform all lawyering functions normally reserved to lawyers admitted to practice. In addition to the Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic, John Jay Legal Services also provides representation to individuals by legal interns enrolled in the Investor Rights Clinic, the Barbara C. Salken Criminal Justice Clinic, the Neighborhood Justice Clinic, the Immigration Justice Clinic, and our newest offering the Food and Beverage Clinic. In addition to these client representation clinics, field work in the non-profit legal arena is available to students through the Legal Services/Public Interest/Health Law Externship, the Family Court Externship, the Prosecution Externship, the Environmental Law Externship, and the Honors Prosecution Externship, a joint undertaking with the Westchester County District Attorney's Office.

The Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic

The Equal Justice America Disability Rights Clinic provides students with the opportunity to learn and apply lawyering skills as well as the substantive law relating to the rights of persons with disabilities in a highly controlled and intensively supervised legal practice environment. For most students, it is their first experience with law as lawyers.

For the 2016-2017 academic year, the Clinic was again offered as a two-semester course. A total of six students participated in the Clinic, including one student participating in the Pro Bono Scholars Program, an initiative of former Chief Judge Jonathan Lippman, designed to increase access to legal services by the underserved. The Pro Bono Scholar worked full-time in the Clinic in the spring semester, having taken the New York Bar Exam in February. The remaining were full-time students who were enrolled for a total of six credits each semester. All students participated in the seminar which provided two academic credits each semester. Students are expected to spend on average five hours per week per clinical credit on case-related work.

The Seminar Component

In a weekly seminar, students learn and practice lawyering skills such as interviewing, counseling, negotiation, fact investigation, and conducting administrative hearings. The learning of these skills is integrated with relevant substantive law, including eligibility for the government benefit programs available to persons with disabilities (Social Security Disability, Supplemental Security Income, Medical Assistance, special education services) and the planning tools available to disabled persons and their families (guardianships, wills, special needs trusts). The seminar also provides the opportunity for students to present issues and choices from the cases they are working on and benefit from the critical reflection of their colleagues. Ethical issues are discussed as they arise in individual cases with particular emphasis on the complexities of working with clients of diminished mental capacity. Students learn how to read and interpret medical records and work with medical personnel to describe a client's medical condition using legally relevant terminology. Students also learn how to work with other helping professionals, such as social workers, doctors, nurses and advocates, to identify and meet clients' non-legal needs. Readings focused on learning lawyering skills are supplemented with readings directly relevant to disability law.

The Case Work Component

Clinic students, either individually or in teams, have primary responsibility for the conduct of their assigned cases. The student is responsible for planning each lawyering activity, reviewing the plan with the Clinic faculty supervisor, conducting the activity and finally, reflecting on the experience and the usefulness of the preparation. Throughout the year, each student engages in client interviewing and counseling, fact investigation and witness interviewing, legal research and analysis, and drafting a variety of legal documents and instruments. Most students have the opportunity to appear before a court or administrative tribunal.

The cases handled involved a variety of legal issues faced by persons with disabilities and their families. Clients were referred by local services agencies including the Veteran’s Administration long-term care facility in Montrose, New York, the Cancer Support Team, Mount Vernon School system; and the Surrogate’s Court of Westchester County. Several clients were referred by other Clinic clients or self-referred. All of the clients are low income. They are unable to pay for the legal help they need and were unable to secure representation from other sources of free legal services.
A total of 57 matters were handled by students during the grant year.* Of these, 26 were new matters. Twenty-four matters were concluded by the end of the grant year and 33 are pending. The cases involved the following substantive areas:

Case Examples

We continued to work with families who wish to become guardians of their adult family members with developmental disabilities. Students worked on 19 such cases, including 3 petitions for modifications of previously-granted guardianships. All clients have been counseled about the guardianship process and assisted in identifying standby guardians and obtaining necessary certifications from doctors and psychologists. Letters of guardianship have been issued by the Surrogate in 5 cases. We are awaiting decisions in 4 cases. One client decided not to proceed. Petitions are being prepared in the remaining cases.

We are also representing grandparents who are petitioning the Family Court for guardianship of their three orphaned grandchildren.

Students also worked on 13 cases in which the clients wished to engage in life-time and estate planning. Four of these cases involve providing for a disabled child or sibling through a life-time or testamentary trust. Eight clients signed wills, powers of attorney and health care proxies that student interns drafted. One client decided not to proceed. The remaining cases are pending. In addition, we assisted a couple to establish a pooled trust account so that their excess income could remain available to meet their needs while receiving Medicaid home care benefits and remained involved with two clients who had previously established pooled trust accounts but needed additional assistance.

We are involved in nine cases requiring the administration of modest estates in Surrogate's Court. Each of these cases involved extensive investigation or challenging family relations. These cases provide excellent experience for the students and a service to the clients who would otherwise see their modest inheritances spent on investigators and lawyers. Two of these estates have been closed and 7 are pending.

In 2 Special Education cases, the students attended Committee on Special Education (CSE) meetings with the parents and secured needed services for the children. In one of these cases, the student successfully advocated for an out-of-district placement and the student has thrived in his new placement.
Two benefit matters were handled during the year. We were unable to secure spousal benefits from the Veteran’s Administration for the estranged wife of a veteran. We are waiting for a hearing to be scheduled by the Social Security Administration for a client who is appealing the denial of Social Security Disability and Supplemental Security Income benefits.

Students have assisted 5 clients with a variety of consumer issues, including internet fraud, student loan debt, and identify theft. Two clients are being assisted with tax matters.

Community Outreach

Clinic students and other law student volunteers participated in Westchester County’s Senior Law Day on September 27, 2016. After audience members heard a presentation about health care proxies, the law student volunteers assisted them with completing health care proxies and answered their individual questions. The Clinic’s Pro Bono Scholar also participated in a smaller Senior Law Day event in Yorktown on May 18, 2017.

Plans for 2016-2017

In addition to offering the Clinic as a year-long course, the Clinic will again be the placement site for a Pace Law student participating in the Pro Bono Scholars Program. We anticipate handling a similar mix of litigation and transactional matters, assisting low income persons without other means of securing needed legal services and giving future lawyers the skills necessary to help this vulnerable population.

Re: Evaluation of Colleen Tennent’s EJA-supported summer fellowship

Dear Dan and Equal Justice America:

This summer, law student Colleen Tennent made an outstanding contribution to our work at the Equal Justice Center and to justice for low-wage working people in Texas. We are deeply grateful to Equal Justice America for supporting her summer internship.

Colleen performed critical legal work to recover unpaid wages for working men and women, most of them immigrants. She successfully won back the unpaid earnings for a substantial number of her clients and for others did critical litigation work to advance them toward a successful conclusion. Colleen worked on individual cases, complex multi-client cases, and large class actions. In the process she gained valuable hands-on litigation experience working in close collaboration with our seasoned attorneys.

Colleen was especially diligent and skilled as a student-lawyer and proved to have a special gift for the comprehensive and detailed precision that is the hallmark of great lawyers. This experience demonstrated to us and to Colleen that she is headed toward a brilliant legal career. We are happy to have played a role in advancing her along that path. We also are once again inspired by the role Equal Justice America plays in helping to nurture promising caring lawyers like Colleen.

The EJA fellowships make it possible for so many public interest-minded lawyers, like Colleen, to gain this kind of experience and make this kind of contribution. Support from EJA was an important factor that enabled Colleen to work with us at the Equal Justice Center this summer. I believe this experience in turn will have a decisively positive impact on her future as a lawyer and on her future contribution to the cause of justice. Moreover, based on our experience with Colleen and many other summer interns we have deployed with EJA’s support, I can attest that Colleen is just the latest in a long succession of examples that demonstrate how EJA changes lives and helps make our world more just and sustainable.

Sincerely,

Re: Fellowship Evaluation for Cassandra Thomson

Dear Mr. Ruben:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter on behalf of our recent summer legal intern, Cassandra (Casey) Thomson. Casey was outstanding! Casey handled a wide range of individual poverty law-based cases, under my close supervision, including housing and public benefits issues for low income seniors; eviction defense cases for tenants in public and subsidized housing; special education and school discipline rights for kids with disabilities; plus assistance in pre-class action litigation negotiations with a major urban school district. Casey’s work was universally stellar. She was supremely compassionate and effective in all of her communications with our clients, including some clients with challenging psychiatric and other behavioral disabilities. Casey is extraordinarily well organized, efficient, fantastic at multitasking, and she is by far the best note-taker of any of the countless law students I have supervised over more than 30 years -- Casey’s notes of complex meetings and conversations are nearly verbatim reflections of every detail of the discussion! Casey’s legal writing and research skills are also excellent.

Casey also took lovely initiative to go above and beyond in empathically helping our clients, particularly seniors, with tasks and issues that exceeded the scope of the precise legal issue we were working on, but nevertheless gave the elders increased peace of mind. For example, Casey accompanied an elder and her adult daughter to the Social Security Administration office to help clarify longstanding confusing communications; she helped a homeless elder with Medicaid and social service-related needs beyond her presenting legal issue; Casey assisted multiple clients with completing and then following up with food stamp applications to ensure prompt and maximum food stamp benefits; and in several cases Casey communicated in great detail with other local social service providers to whom we were referring seniors for assistance that wasn’t within our priorities -- and provided the social service representatives with such detailed and ample information that it enabled them to much more effectively assist the clients.
Casey had fortunate timing for her internship. She arrived just when I, along with other lawyers from our agency, were getting ready to file a class action lawsuit against a large urban school district regarding unlawful school suspensions and other violations of the state school discipline reform law. After we sent the school district’s attorney a copy of the class action complaint that we were about to file in court, the school district officials immediately sought to engage in pre-litigation settlement discussions. Throughout Casey’s internship, she got to participate in several large negotiation sessions that involved multiple representatives from both sides, as well as several of our team’s internal strategizing discussions. These pre-litigation negotiations were particularly interesting and educational for Casey to observe, and these opportunities are not routine in our practice.

We deeply appreciate EJA’s financial support for Casey Thomson’s summer legal internship. Casey was an invaluable contributor in our office, and everyone in our office thoroughly enjoyed her presence. We would absolutely welcome Casey back, should she want to do any additional internships in our office to get an even more varied set of poverty law experiences. Casey was a great asset to our office, and most especially to the clients she served.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ruben:

I am more than happy to write a letter commending David Ballard on his fine work as a law student intern at Pisgah Legal Services this summer.

David worked primarily with clients facing debt and foreclosure issues. His attorney supervisor, Bill Whalen, had this to say about David:

Under my supervision, David interviewed new clients, worked on ongoing client cases...and performed a number of research projects for me. On one particularly noteworthy research project, David uncovered a little-known exception to the general rule barring discharge of student loan debts in bankruptcy, and wrote a concise and well-reasoned memorandum on a short deadline.

David was a fast learner, careful researcher, able writer, and outstanding collaborator. He was a sponge for learning all he could and a self-starter at following up on issues I gave him to work on. He demonstrated strong organizational and cooperative skills, and did an excellent job when presenting cases to our staff. He also eagerly pursued several opportunities I arranged for him to sit in on mediations of pending cases, and he got universally fine reviews from his attendance at the sessions from the attorneys and former judges involved in the cases.

Most of all, I was struck by two of David's outstanding qualities: his sincere and deep empathy for the clients he came into contact with, and his desire not just for knowledge and understanding, but also for the search of wisdom. A really fine person, it was an honor and privilege to work with David.

As the coordinator of the internship program, I echo Mr. Whalen's sentiments that David had a very positive impact on his coworkers, our clients, and the work that we do. He treated everyone with respect and kindness and was always willing to help.

Thank you so much for funding David's work for us; he was a true asset to our organization.

Sincerely,

Re: Andrew Gerst

Dear Mr. Ruben:

I am writing to say thank you for supporting Andrew Gerst, who did a great job as an intern this summer. I supervised Andrew in our Housing Unit at Community Legal Services in Philadelphia.

Throughout the summer, Andrew demonstrated his commitment to our clients time and again. Our office remains perpetually strapped for resources, meaning we cannot serve many of the people who come seeking help. In situations when other students might have turned a client away, Andrew often agreed to help. Andrew assisted in translating for clients who did not speak English. He also has worked hard to listen to the needs of clients themselves. He has demonstrated that it is important for advocates not just to do what the lawyer thinks is best, but to respect the wishes of the client.

Andrew assisted more than 60 clients. In our unit, he represented clients in person, assisted in writing briefs, and consulted with attorneys in our unit. Like the other interns in our unit, Andrew also conducted intake at least twice a week. During intake, he interviewed potential clients and discussed strategies for them (such as making sure the landlord had provided a certificate of rental suitability, taking photographs of damaged items, withholding rent, etc.). He followed up with phone calls and emails with the client. He also often negotiated with opposing counsel on behalf of clients. Andrew came with me to housing court and assisted clients who were facing eviction hearings. He attended a settlement conference and prepared for a trial at the Court of Common Pleas for a case appealed from landlord-tenant court.

Andrew has been able to achieve excellent outcomes. In one case, a client of ours faced eviction because her son, who used to live with her, had been convicted of a drug-related offense. Thanks to Andrew’s diligent work demonstrating that our client had already signed a lease without her son’s name on it, the Philadelphia Housing Authority agreed to withdraw the case. In another case, a client faced a judgment of more than $500, plus court costs and the like. Andrew was able to successfully negotiate an agreement where the client paid just $50 and was able to stay in her home. Andrew also helped a client sign a settlement agreement for the Court of Common Pleas. While the client faced a complaint asking for more than $3,000 in damages, the settlement agreement withdrew all of these monetary claims save for the esrowed rent. These are just a few examples—I know Andrew has been working on many other cases as well.

Andrew was extremely helpful in work I have been continuing for one of our most vulnerable clients. This client is an elderly formerly homeless veteran. The client is being threatened with eviction because of an alleged failure to keep his room clean for bed bug treatment. Even with his heavy caseload and near-daily intake duties, Andrew wrote a thorough memorandum of law exploring these issues. With help from our unit’s social worker and me, Andrew argued that the failure of the housing provider to assist the client with cleaning constituted a failure to provide a reasonable accommodation, as required by the Fair Housing Act. Andrew researched guidance documents from the Department of Justice and the Department of Housing and Urban Development for this memorandum. He also interviewed the client again, communicated with the client’s physicians, and helped the client produce new documentary and medical evidence supporting his claim. Based on Andrew’s work, I have been able to submit an emergency petition to stay eviction.

I know that Andrew will make an outstanding lawyer. We have been lucky to have him. I thank you for continuing to support dedicated public interest law students like Andrew Gerst.

Sincerely,

Re: Evaluation of EJA Fellow Paulina Rivera

Dear Mr. Ruben:

I write at the request of Paulina Rivera, an EJA Fellow and summer 2017 intern with the Capital Area Immigrants' Rights (CAIR) Coalition. I joined the University of the District of Columbia (UDC) in August 2017, but was a staff attorney and Ms. Rivera's direct supervisor at CAIR Coalition this summer. I was also the attorney responsible for hiring summer interns and organizing our summer internship program. Our goal was to provide law students with a solid legal grounding in immigration law with a focus on the nexus between our criminal and immigration systems; an understanding of the immigration detention system and the "removal" (deportation) process; and an opportunity to work on a removal defense case with a trial in immigration court.

Ms. Rivera's duties this summer included visiting immigration detention centers; conducting legal intakes; assessing eligibility for relief under immigration law; assisting in translation and trial preparation in English, Spanish, and French; and coordinating with her co-intern to be the point of contact and primary attorney for a client in removal proceedings whose trial occurred at the end of her internship. Ms. Rivera's duties required a great many legal skills, including legal research and writing; oral advocacy at trial; developing the factual record; developing case strategy; and managing and preparing witnesses for trial.

Ms. Rivera was a dedicated and diligent intern. She organized her time and tasks efficiently and completed them with ease. In requesting guidance from me, she asked specific questions and it was clear that she had already taken the time to think through and research legal issues on her own. Ms. Rivera and her co-counsel collaborated as a team to represent a client in a very complicated and difficult case - factually, emotionally, and legally. Ms. Rivera and her co-counsel put together a brilliant filing that combined strong legal arguments and compelling facts and, most importantly, humanized their immigrant client for the immigration judge. The last week of her internship, Ms. Rivera and her co-counsel went to trial in immigration court against a trained government attorney. As law students practicing under the supervision of an attorney, Ms. Rivera and her co-counsel were the lead attorneys on their client's case and prepared opening and closing statements and direct examinations as well as responded to the immigration judge’s concerns. Ms. Rivera worked tirelessly in the weeks leading up to filing and trial; the result of her efforts was nothing short of a miracle. I can honestly say that Ms. Rivera achieved the best possible result for her client, even though we had filed and prepared for alternative, lesser relief. This miracle win was a testament to her legal expertise, dedication, and passion for immigration law.

CAIR Coalition is grateful for the EJA fellowship which permits law students to pursue public interest summer internships that nonprofits are not able to fund. We hope that your funding and our robust mentorship of law student interns will inspire new lawyers to pursue careers advocating for marginalized communities.

RE: Elizabeth Wolfe – Summer Intern

Dear Mr. Ruben:

I am the Managing Attorney for the Johnstown Office of Laurel Legal Services and I have had the pleasure of working with Elizabeth Wolfe as an Intern for the Summer of 2017.

Elizabeth has a conviction for helping individuals in need. I witnessed her working closely with the clients to understand their cases as well as resolving their frustration with the legal system. Sometimes, there are not enough attorneys to go around and all we can provide is solid advice on how to proceed with a case. Elizabeth was able to help us resolve some unmet needs in the areas of custody and eviction proceedings by creating flow charts for the clients in order to better visualize their cases and understand the process. Sometimes it is easier to see the next step in the process rather than be told what it is.

More than anything else, I would like to think that Elizabeth gained firsthand knowledge and a greater understanding of the unmet needs within our legal system. There are so many people who need our help and the limited triage we can do does not always reach the depth of the problem. It was encouraging to see Elizabeth develop an appreciation for Civil Gideon in a day and age when other new attorneys are only concerned with ascending the corporate ladder. It was within the last year that a prominent attorney gave advice in the Pennsylvania Legal Journal to new lawyers and stated that they should build their career first and do pro bono later in their career. That is the attitude that we are faced with every day. It was a shining moment to learn that Elizabeth understands the need to develop a career and simultaneously be benevolent and caring to individuals who are in need of help. I only wish there were more like her willing to accept that challenge.

I am grateful to your organization, as is Elizabeth, and I hope that in time there will be other students following in her footsteps through our door. In this day and age of so many funding cuts, it is difficult to maintain a presence in any community. But having a willing advocate onboard leaves me hopeful that we can and will fulfill the unmet needs in our community.
I have a concern that law schools may teach people how to be lawyers and lawyer like. But there is no substitute for meeting real people who are suffering through difficult and impossible situations. Elizabeth approached everyone with dignity and respect. I can only hope that she has learned a few lessons that will remain with her for years to come.

I wish her a long and happy career.

Very truly yours,

Re: Tim Ryan

Dear Dan:

I am writing this letter of evaluation for Tim Ryan of George Washington University Law School who worked with us this summer, using an EJA fellowship.

We are enormously appreciative of the support you provided to Tim, since without your assistance we could not have employed him this summer. Tim made a very significant contribution to the work of our program and to our farmworker and immigrant clients. He was enthusiastic about the work and assignments, very diligent in pursuing the work, and very easy to work with. He produced high quality work and it was also a great pleasure to have him with us these past few months.

Tim undertook a variety of important legal research and writing projects for us. We provide a lot of training and technical assistance to grassroots groups which directly serve our client community. Tim updated state legal materials for a host of these trainings, to ensure we had the most current law to present to local staff. He also researched, among other things, a variety of federal funding issues, delving into some quite arcane areas.

One of the more interesting and significant areas which he researched pertained to the Reading Sufficiency Act, an Oklahoma state law. This statute requires the retention in third grade of any student who cannot pass the standardized English reading test at the end of that year. This discriminates against any student not fluent in English and most immigrant students are in that category.

Thank you for making Tim's work possible for us! We benefited enormously from his presence with us this summer and we believe that, in turn, we provided an opportunity for expansion of his knowledge and legal skills at this same time.
The Migrant Legal Action Program has greatly valued our partnership with EJA through the years. We especially appreciate your interest in supporting work on behalf of very significantly disadvantaged groups, including our client community. We look forward to our continuing relationship.

Please let me know if you have any questions about his work or need any additional information.

Sincerely,

Before explaining the excellent experience and practice I gained in my summer position, I would like to first thank all of those working to make the Equal Justice America fellowship possible. I am honored to be an EJA fellow, and I assumed reception of the fellowship as a serious responsibility to perform to my fullest capacity in my summer position. Being chosen as a fellow meant more than just provision of financial means; it meant I had a duty to the donors, those at EJA who reviewed my initial application, and to the clients I served.

I was fortunate enough to spend my summer as a law clerk at Legal Services of South Central Michigan (LSSCM). Due to the thorough introduction with which LSSCM welcomes the law clerks and also the many kind and helpful attorneys, my transition as a new law clerk was seamless and I immediately felt ready to accept assignments. Because I was there Monday through Friday, I make connections with attorneys that created endless opportunities for me.

I worked primarily on family law cases, and secondarily on landlord-tenant cases. Sadly, most if not all of our clients seeking help with divorce, custody or personal protection orders, have endured a history of abuse. Abuse tears down a person’s ability to function at even the simplest level, creating fear and insecurity in the mind of the abused; especially if he or she is low income. The legal system is often the next step after an abused client has sought help from a shelter, and more often than not the clients come to us in very desperate times. One such client I helped came as an immigrant to America and fell in love with a non-immigrant man. This man proved to be abusive and lord her immigrant status over her at any sign of dispute. Once we accepted her case she was so happy that she cried. She expressed how relieved and proud she felt that all these people were working to help her, despite her husband’s previous threats that nobody would. This client’s story is not unique, and it is extremely important that these people receive legal representation. Especially in situations where one party is financially at an advantage over another, it is empowering for clients to know that their legal representation puts them on an equal platform with the opposing party.
Another realm of client empowerment is in landlord-tenant cases, when tenants can receive as much access to legal advice as their landlords. In the Eviction Diversion Program (EDP) law clerks have the opportunity to represent tenants facing eviction. One client I helped was a veteran with severe anxiety; he was uneasy and nervous being in the courthouse and was getting upset. A problem with his disability payments prevented him from paying his rent in full and the unpaid rent accumulated month after month. The landlord made a verbal agreement with the tenant, in which he would allow him to stay and slowly pay off his debt, but at the last minute the landlord changed his mind and served the tenant with a notice to quit. The tenant owed over two thousand dollars in rent and was facing eviction. I was able to negotiate a settlement in which the landlord honored the previous agreement, allowing the client to stay in his unit and make monthly payments toward the back balance.

Having a background in social work definitely gave me an advantage this summer when it came to communicating with clients. Many clients expressed gratitude for making them feel listened to; not just by hearing their words, but by engaging with them and letting them know that I understood their concerns and questions. While many clients had family support, others had none and found a sense of strength, pride and reassurance in knowing that they had devoted legal help.

This summer’s unique hands-on experience may not have been possible had it not been for the fellowship. In fact, my position this summer at LSSCM has turned into an offer to continue in the fall, which I accepted. A sincere thank you for opening so many doors to my future.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ruben:

Working as a fellow for Equal Justice America for the summer of 2017 was one of the most rewarding experiences I have ever had in my life. I was able to work with underserved populations of people who need help the most. Nothing is more rewarding than working with people who are going through hard times. I will never forget this opportunity and would like to thank everybody from Equal Justice America for their support. This experience made me realize that one of my career goals is to help underserved people with legal assistance.

While working with the New York Legal Assistance Group (NYLAG): Storm Response Unit, I was able to help individuals who are still dealing with issues relating to Hurricane Sandy. The Storm Response Unit deals with a variety of clients from New York. Most of the clients I dealt with were poor individuals who could not afford to hire their own legal counsel. The Storm Response Unit does all legal work for a client that arises from Hurricane Sandy. This includes legal drafting of documents, legal research, community outreach, and advocacy. Working with people who are still recovering from Hurricane Sandy showed me how rewarding it can be to help those in need.

One of the clients that stuck out to me the most was an individual who lost her husband in Hurricane Sandy. Her Husband stayed at their home while she left before the storm. When the wife returned home her husband was found dead. Also, this client’s house was partially destroyed due to the storm. The Storm Response Unit has been dealing with this client since the onset of the storm. I was able to help do some research and writing for this client to a community organization that is helping individual’s restore their homes in the New York City area. I also was able to speak to this client to gather information. Her story has had a lasting effect on my life because not only did she lose her husband but also part of her home. This client still has the strength to move on in her life and thrive even after these terrible circumstances. We were able to help her gain some assistance in order to restore her home. This was an incredible feeling and it felt great for me to do my part to help her feel whole again.

Without help from Equal Justice America none of this would have been possible. Thanks to Equal Justice America I was allowed to have a phenomenal experience this summer helping represent vulnerable individuals. This is a summer experience that will resonate with me throughout the remainder of my life. I was allowed to serve over 100 people this summer. I would like to thank all of the people that deal with Equal Justice America for their help in allowing me to have this experience this summer.

With Sincere Thanks,

Steven Paskowitz

Dear Mr. Ruben,

My name is Raymond Chavez and I am a second year student at Loyola Law School. Early last Spring I was offered an amazing opportunity to work for the Coalition to Abolish Slavery and Trafficking (CAST). I have always had an interest in combating human trafficking and I had never had the opportunity to serve that particular population in the past. Needless to say I was quite thrilled when I received an offer to intern as a law clerk at CAST for the summer of 2017. I was quickly faced with a daunting realization; I did not have the means to support myself while working full time for free over the summer. I come from a low income background and can only attend law school because I was fortunate enough to receive generous scholarships. The internship at CAST was quickly looking too expensive for me to consider. Because CAST is a non-profit organization they naturally cannot afford to pay legal interns for their services. In addition I would need to drive an hour and a half to get to work each day, pay for my own food as well as pay for parking at a fifteen dollar a day rate. To offset those costs I applied to become an Equal Justice America fellow for the summer of 2017 and was awarded funds which allowed me to pursue my passion and work at CAST this past summer, and for that I am extremely grateful.

While at CAST I had the honor of meeting many inspiring individuals. The clients whom CAST serves have shown themselves time and again to be some of the hardest working people I have ever met. While at CAST I served a large group of migrant farm workers, all of whom are survivors of human trafficking. They suffered years of abuse and mistreatment at the hands of their trafficker, an experience which could drain the hope from even the strongest of people. And yet even after surviving all that they had, the migrant workers never stopped working for a better future. After they liberated themselves, they continued to work hard to support themselves and their families and ultimately applied for their green cards in the hopes that one day their children could receive the protections afforded to United States citizens.

The job definitely wasn’t easy. There were times where I wondered how the attorneys at CAST could find the willpower to keep going in the face of so much hardship. The cases they took on were difficult, the stories they heard were heartbreaking, and the hurdles they had to surpass to be zealous advocates for their clients were immense. My answer came in the form of a client who I met halfway through the summer. She was a young woman who had been forced into prostitution by her trafficker for a few years. She was now working to support herself and her young child. One day during a meeting I asked her what she planned to do when her case was over and she answered that she wanted to find work as an employee at a university. I must have looked a bit puzzled because she proceeded to smile and elaborate that she had heard some universities offer tuition remission benefits for dependents of their employees. She said that she wanted her child to have opportunities that were never afforded to her, and that she was ready to work hard to help her child earn a degree someday. This moment more than any other has made a lasting imprint on me. In that moment I saw a brave young mother who had survived things which would have broken many others and yet at the end of the day still gives all that she has to offer her child a better future.

If I had to impart [and] boil down what I learned at CAST into a single lesson it would be this: the way we currently view human trafficking in the U.S. is flawed. Too often we make stories of human trafficking about the traffickers themselves, and view the victims of those traffickers as precisely that, victims. But the reality is they are more than just victims of a crime, they are survivors. They are men and women who despite every hardship, have endured and believe that a better future is something worth fighting for. The story of human trafficking is the story of its survivors. When I looked into their eyes and heard them tell me about the hopes and dreams for a better tomorrow which they were undauntedly pursuing, I saw the American Dream made human. I will forever be grateful to both CAST and Equal Justice America for providing me with this experience, and I hope to one day return the favor by continuing to serve the community I have grown to love.

Thank you,

Mr. Dan Ruben, Executive Director

Building II – Suite 204

Dear Mr. Ruben:

Thank you very much for all of the work that you and your staff do at Equal Justice America ("EJA"). The generosity and commitment to public interest from EJA and its donors makes it possible for students to participate in work that may not have otherwise been available. The EJA’s Fellowship Program is the reason why I was able to participate in my summer internship with Community Action Program Legal Services (CAPLAW). CAPLAW, a nonprofit organization in Boston, Massachusetts, provides legal education, training and advice to Community Action Agencies (CAAs) throughout the United States. CAAs were created to combat against poverty in America, and CAPLAW provides legal assistance to help these nonprofits reach their missions by providing legal guidance regarding program governance, employment, and administrative law matters. CAPLAW’s consultations and technical trainings are essential to helping CAAs operate legally sound and sustainable organizations so that the organizations can focus their time and energy into fighting the cycle of poverty in America.

During my time with CAPLAW, I had the opportunity to work on a variety of legal assignments and interesting areas of law that I would not otherwise have been exposed to. Working closely with CAPLAW’s staff, I was able to consult CAA Executive Directors and staff on several compliance and other related legal issues. I was also able to draft articles for CAPLAW’s e-Bulletin and newsletter. These articles outlined the recent changes to the Head Start Program Performance Standards, particularly on new privacy requirements for Head Start grantees, as well as some significant changes to the requirements for Head Start facilities. In June, I also assisted with CAPLAW’s Annual Training Conference, which brings together CAA members and partners from across the country for three days of learning and networking.

Furthermore, I had the opportunity to work with several different CAAs on a variety of issues. I worked with a CAA on rewriting its nonprofit corporation bylaws in order to ensure that the bylaws were in compliance with federal and state regulations. I also worked on several discrete projects concerning several employment law questions. These often involved CAAs that wanted to make sure that their agencies’ sick leave policies were in compliance with the Family and Medical Leave Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act. Working on these issues made me appreciate all of the work that goes into making an organization run smoothly, especially for nonprofit organizations. I realized that the work I was involved in made sure that more resources could go into providing direct services to low-income individuals and families.

The different projects and consolutions I was involved with this summer provided me with a tremendous opportunity to learn and gain practical experience. The professional and personal growth I experienced this summer has reinforced my commitment to public interest work, and it is, in large part, due to the generosity of the EJA Fellowship Program. I cannot thank you and your donors enough for your support.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Ruben:

I could not be happier that I spent my summer at Lawyers’ Committee for Better Housing (LCBH). It would have been difficult for me financially to work for a nonprofit without receiving compensation, so I want to stress my gratefulness in receiving the Equal Justice America (EJA) fellowship. While working at LCBH, I learned several different strengths that I look forward to further honing in future areas of work, including working with clients of varying backgrounds, legal writing, collaboration, and policy project work.

The area where I expected to gain experience was in client service, and I was not disappointed. First, once a week for two hours I conducted phone interviews with individuals that had left voicemails with LCBH’s Tenants in Foreclosure Hotline. On these phone calls, I gathered facts and determined whether it was necessary for potential clients to come to the office for intake interviews. Conducting phone interviews was a challenge at first because communication for me is more difficult when it is impossible to understand facial cues, interpret body language, or read lips. This was helpful exposure for me, then, because phone communication is something that I will have to do in the future regardless of where I end up working. Learning how common it is for tenants to be cheated out of relocation assistance, which in Chicago is $10,500 for eligible tenants, was disturbing. Often these tenants were living in standards that violated warranties of habitability and posed severe health risks to them. Having the opportunity not only to help them in their present situation but also to provide them with tools to work with in the future should they find themselves in a similar situation was immensely gratifying.

The second way in which I worked directly with clients was by conducting intake interviews. Every week from 9:00 am until noon or one pm, I interviewed potential clients that had come to LCBH with problems ranging from conditions issues to evictions to problematic landlord behavior. A strength that I developed from conducting intake interviews was learning how to gather the sort of information that will be needed when legally assessing the issue at hand without cutting a person off or preventing them from saying that which they wished to say. This required control at times, along with gentle redirection where necessary, but was helpful in reminding me that everyone has a story to tell, and although I am seeking certain information, it is important to still play the role of an active and respectful listener.

Finally, I had two opportunities to co-lead a client meeting in which my advisor and I reviewed draft complaints and also asked questions to fill gaps in the factual background. This was a different sort of client contact in that it also involved explaining the legal process to them, including the pros and cons of filing versus trying to negotiate an agreement prior to filing, along with laying out the timeline of a case moving through court. This was one of the most moving experiences that I had this summer. This woman had experienced serious adversity after having been illegally locked out of her home pursuant to the foreclosure of her landlord’s building. Her landlord trashed her belongings and forced her and her children to leave the apartment immediately, rendering them homeless. The police did not help our client remedy the lockout. When she came to LCBH, she wanted to bring a suit against her former landlord. She had no idea that she had been cheated out of receiving the relocation assistance in the amount of $10,500 as a tenant of a foreclosed building in Chicago. Her surprise was significant, and the hope that she had going forward was powerful. Seeing the justice system finally work for this woman was something that I will never forget, and it was inspiring to be able to use a unique set of skills to make her life better.

Working at LCBH reminded me of my passion for working with people and using my expertise to aid individuals going through difficult times in their lives. During coursework, it is easy to forget what the end product of a degree will look like. This summer, I remembered how rewarding it is to do nonprofit work.

In addition to working with clients, I had the unique opportunity to research and write as well, something that is not always a possibility as a summer extern in a nonprofit. I wrote several demand letters and cease and desist letters, a motion for summary judgment, and two complaints. Working with LCBH not only gave me substantial practice in working with clients and supervisors, and I learned a substantial amount about my own work style, how I work with others, and how I operate when adapting to a new practice area. These are all experiences that will be very helpful in adapting to a learning curve during a new job in the future.

I am thankful to have worked for LCBH and would like to again emphasize that it would not have been as feasible without having received funds from EJA. Thank you again so much for the opportunity, and I am proud to be affiliated with such a commendable organization.

Sincerely,

Krista Evensen

Dan Ruben
Executive Director
Equal Justice America

Dear Mr. Ruben,

This summer I had the privilege of interning for Atlanta Legal Aid Society, Inc. I was assigned to the General Law Unit in downtown Atlanta. When my internship began, I was uncertain of what type of law I wanted to practice, but after working with my supervisor and other attorneys in the office, I gained a stronger interest in labor and employment law. I likely would not have realized my interest in employment law without my experience through Atlanta Legal Aid.

My duties in the office included weekly screening of clients who were eligible for Legal Aid's services. I would be assigned anywhere from 2-5 clients to call in order to better understand their legal issues. Often these phone calls required follow up with the clients who came to our office. This allowed me to have one-on-one time with the clients and sometimes to decipher that their legal issues were more extensive than they originally presented.

During these screening calls, I was often struck by awe and respect for clients who tried to handle these legal issues on their own. Many of them had made lengthy trips on public transit to visit public benefits offices, researched their legal issues at the library, and maintained a personal file and record for their case. While I respected their initiative, they simply were unable to efficiently protect their own interests alone. After struggling for weeks, months, or even years with legal issues, their gratitude for the assistance I provided was humbling.

In addition to screening clients, I was also able to represent two clients in two very different matters. The first case was assigned to me early on, and while it did not involve a law suit or a large recovery, the impact on the client made this one of the most rewarding experiences of my professional career thus far.

The client was an elderly resident of a public housing facility which had, for years, promised a reward for any resident who reported a crime which resulted in an arrest. One year before calling us, the client had witnessed three men burglarizing an apartment. She reported it to the police, and one of the three men was arrested. For one year the client repeatedly requested her reward from management, but she was dismissed each time. After speaking with me and providing me with the pamphlets which promised the reward, I drafted a letter to the apartment management requesting the reward be dispersed to my client. Within two weeks, the client called me with great excitement to inform me that they had given her the $300 reward. Although this $300 may seem small to many, you could hear the joy in the client that the matter was settled, and she was given what she was rightfully owed.

The second client that was assigned to me was a client who was disabled and only capable of working a part time job. She was living in a hotel and had recently been fired from her employment due to her disability restrictions, and she was seeking unemployment compensation. She filed for unemployment by making lengthy transit trips to the Department of Labor. She went to three to five interviews a week to seek new employment. She also made lengthy trips to her post office only to be met with rejection letters from the Department of Labor. The client filed an appeal and represented herself at her first administrative hearing; again, she was denied.

By the time the client spoke with me, she was exhausted by this process, and she was feeling helpless regarding her worsening financial state. I was able to meet with her personally in our office, and after accepting her case for representation, I spoke with her almost every day to discuss updates on the case. After reviewing her record, it became apparent that the Hearing Officer who reviewed her appeal had made a grave legal mistake. Not only had the Officer misstated the law, she had misapplied it. It appeared obvious that the client was entitled to benefits. I researched the case law and drafted a brief on behalf of the client which was submitted in support of her appeal to the Department of Labor Board of Review.

While waiting for the decision from the Board of Review, I continued to speak with the client almost every day. She eventually obtained a new job, and she frequently called me to tell me about her duties or her schedule. She also told me about her discussions with her doctor who believed part of her disability was due to her falling at her previous employment. During these discussions, we came to realize that she may also have a claim for worker’s compensation and even discrimination by her previous employer based on her age and disability. Although Legal Aid could not represent her in these claims, I was able to refer her to attorneys in the area so that she could pursue these legal actions. These daily communications with the client seemed to ease her stress, and I appreciated the opportunity to learn more about her during this journey.

My last week at Atlanta Legal Aid Society we obtained the Board of Review decision. The supervising attorney watched as I opened the decision and read that the Board agreed with my argument; my client was entitled to benefits. The first thing I wanted to do was call the client to tell her the good news. She repeatedly thanked me for my help, and she seemed overwhelmed that the problem was over. I informed her then that I would be leaving Legal Aid to return to school, and she congratulated me on my achievements and wished me luck.

It was satisfying to be able to give my supervising attorney her file knowing that I had made her life easier and less stressful just by using my privilege and education to fight for what she was rightfully entitled to.

I am grateful to Equal Justice America for giving me the opportunity and the financial security to take this internship with Atlanta Legal Aid Society. This experience humbled me. I was able to take on real, legal responsibilities rather than merely research issues that other attorneys would handle. I was inspired, not only by my clients but by the people of Legal Aid who make it their mission to improve client’s lives. I am now committed to taking pro bono work and volunteering my time to Atlanta Legal Aid or similar organizations during my legal career.

Thank you again for this opportunity,

Mr. Ruben,

This summer, I had the pleasure of working with Kids Voice, an organization that represents children involved in the child welfare system. A majority of the children we represented came from families who fall below the federal poverty guidelines. I had the opportunity to take part in various parts of the legal process including attending family conferences, representing at hearings, as well as client visits. My experience allowed me to have numerous client interactions allowing me to interact with the children I advocated for.

I was able to visit the children in their placements to be able to build a personal relationship with them so I could appropriately advocate for their best interest. One client in particular I was able to take to the park and discuss with him his current family situation. He expressed to me what he wanted and how the courtroom process confused him. I communicated to him that my job was to ensure that his best interests were my main goal in the courtroom and that I would ensure to advocate to make sure he has a safe place to go home to. This conversation allowed us to build a strong bond where he felt comfortable confiding in me about any concerns or fears he had about his current situation.

Another client I represented was a child in a shelter hearing that was not being properly cared for by his family. I was able to represent that it is in the child’s best interest to stay in his current placement until his parents were able to get the help they needed. The child was then ordered to remain in his placement. This hearing allowed me to give the child a voice, who may not otherwise have one. I was able to represent his best interest in the courtroom to ensure his safety.

I am thoroughly grateful for the opportunity to provide support and advocacy to children of low income families in the welfare system. Without this scholarship from Equal Justice America, I would not have had the opportunity to provide legal support to those children in need. I would like to thank you for granting me the scholarship to allow me to devote my summer to this type of work that has installed within me a passion to help those in need.

Sincerely,

Board of Directors
Equal Justice America, Inc.

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Equal Justice America, Inc., which comprise the statement of financial position, as of June 30, 2017, and the related statements of activities, functional expenses, and cash flows for the year then ended.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of the internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor’s Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement in the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity’s preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluation the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Opinion
In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Equal Justice America, Inc. as of June 30, 2017 and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Note 1: Nature of Organization and Significant Accounting Policies

Equal Justice America, Inc. (the Organization) is a not-for-profit organization that provides grants to legal service organizations that deliver civil legal assistance to the poor. The Board of Directors and management employees of the Organization acknowledge that, to the best of their ability, all assets received have been used for the purpose for which they were contributed, or have been accumulated to allow management to conduct the operations of the Organization as effectively and efficiently as possible.

Support and Expenses. Contributions received and unconditional promises to give are measured at their fair values and are reported as an increase in net assets. The Organization reports gifts of cash and other assets as restricted support if they are received with donor stipulations that limit the use of the donated assets, or if they are designed as support for future periods. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or purpose restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the statement of activity as net assets released from restrictions. Donor-restricted contributions whose restrictions are met in the same reporting period are reported as unrestricted support. Currently, the Organization only has unrestricted net assets.

Expenses are recorded when incurred in accordance with the accrual basis of accounting.

Donated Services. A substantial number of unpaid volunteers have made significant contributions of their time to assist in the Organization’s programs; however, the donated services are not reflected in the financial statements since the services do not require specialized skills.

Use of Estimates. The preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents. Cash consists of cash held in a checking account and money market account.

Income Taxes. The organization is a not-for-profit corporation whose revenue is derived from contributions from individuals, corporations, and other non-profit entities and is not subject to federal or state income taxes.

Fixed Assets. Acquisitions of fixed assets are recorded at cost. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the assets and computed on the straight-line method, generally 5 to 7 years.

Note 2: Property and Equipment

Property and equipment, is comprised of the following:

Part VII  Compensation of Officers, Directors, Trustees, Key Employees, Highest Compensated Employees, and Independent Contractors

Section A. Officers, Directors, Trustees, Key Employees, and Highest Compensated Employees

1a Complete this table for all persons required to be listed. Report compensation for the calendar year ending with or within the organization's tax year.

- List all of the organization's current officers, directors, trustees (whether individuals or organizations), regardless of amount of compensation. Enter -0- in columns (D), (E), and (F) if no compensation was paid.
- List all of the organization's current key employees, if any. See instructions for definition of "key employee."
- List the organization's five current highest compensated employees (other than an officer, director, trustee, or key employee) who received reportable compensation (Box 5 of Form W-2 and/or Box 7 of Form 1099-MISC) of more than $100,000 from the organization and any related organizations.
- List all of the organization's former officers, key employees, and highest compensated employees who received more than $100,000 of reportable compensation from the organization and any related organizations.
- List all of the organization's former directors or trustees that received, in the capacity as a former director or trustee of the organization, more than $10,000 of reportable compensation from the organization and any related organizations.

List persons in the following order: individual trustees or directors; institutional trustees; officers; key employees; highest compensated employees; and former such persons.

Check this box if neither the organization nor any related organization compensated any current officer, director, or trustee.

Public Charity Status and Public Support

Complete if the organization is a section 501(c)(3) organization or a section 4947(a)(1) nonexempt charitable trust.

Information about Schedule A (Form 990 or 990-EZ) and its instructions is at www.irs.gov/form990.

Name of the organization: EQUAL JUSTICE AMERICA, INC

Employer identification number: 13-3708596

Part I  Reason for Public Charity Status (All organizations must complete this part.) See instructions.

The organization is not a private foundation because it is: (For lines 1 through 12, check only one box.)

1  A church, convention of churches, or association of churches described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(i).
2  A school described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(ii). (Attach Schedule E (Form 990 or 990-EZ).)
3  A hospital or a cooperative hospital service organization described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(iii).
4  A medical research organization operated in conjunction with a hospital described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(iii). Enter the hospital's name, city, and state:
5  An organization operated for the benefit of a college or university owned or operated by a governmental unit described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(iv). (Complete Part II.)
6  A federal, state, or local government or governmental unit described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(v).
7  An organization that normally receives a substantial part of its support from a governmental unit or from the general public described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(vi). (Complete Part II.)
8  A community trust described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(vi). (Complete Part II.)
9  An agricultural research organization described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(ix) operated in conjunction with a land-grant college or university or a non-land-grant college of agriculture (see instructions). Enter the name, city, and state of the college or university:
10  An organization that normally receives: (1) more than 33 1/3% of its support from contributions, membership fees, and gross receipts from activities related to its exempt functions—subject to certain exceptions, and (2) no more than 33 1/3% of its support from gross investment income and unrelated business taxable income (less section 511 tax) from businesses acquired by the organization after June 30, 1975. See section 509(a)(2). (Complete Part III.)
11  An organization organized and operated exclusively to test for public safety. See section 509(a)(4).
12  An organization organized and operated exclusively for the benefit of, to perform the functions of, or to carry out the purposes of one or more publicly supported organizations described in section 509(a)(1) or section 509(a)(2). See section 509(a)(3). Check the box in lines 12a through 12d that describes the type of supporting organization and complete lines 12e, 12f, and 12g.

a  Type I. A supporting organization operated, supervised, or controlled by its supported organization(s), typically by giving the supported organization(s) the power to regularly appoint or elect a majority of the directors or trustees of the supporting organization. You must complete Part IV, Sections A and B.

b  Type II. A supporting organization supervised or controlled in connection with its supported organization(s), by having control or management of the supporting organization vested in the same persons that control or manage the supported organization(s). You must complete Part IV, Sections A and C.

c  Type III functionally integrated. A supporting organization operated in connection with, and functionally integrated with, its supported organization(s) (see instructions). You must complete Part IV, Sections A, D, and E.

d  Type III non-functionally integrated. A supporting organization operated in connection with its supported organization(s) that is not functionally integrated. The organization generally must satisfy a distribution requirement and an attentiveness requirement (see instructions). You must complete Part IV, Sections A and D, and Part V.

e  Check this box if the organization received a written determination from the IRS that it is a Type I, Type II, Type III functionally integrated, or Type III non-functionally integrated supporting organization.

f  Enter the number of supported organizations:

11 Has the organization accepted a gift or contribution from any of the following persons?
   a A person who directly or indirectly controls, either alone or together with persons described in (b) and (c) below, the governing body of a supported organization?  11a
   b A family member of a person described in (a) above?  11b
   c A 35% controlled entity of a person described in (a) or (b) above? If "Yes" to a, b, or c, provide detail in Part VI.  11c

Section B. Type I Supporting Organizations

1 Did the directors, trustees, or membership of one or more supported organizations have the power to regularly appoint or elect at least a majority of the organization's directors or trustees at all times during the tax year? If "No," describe in Part VI how the supported organization(s) effectively operated, supervised, or controlled the organization's activities. If the organization had more than one supported organization, describe how the powers to appoint and/or remove directors or trustees were allocated among the supported organizations and what conditions or restrictions, if any, applied to such powers during the tax year.  1

2 Did the organization operate for the benefit of any supported organization other than the supported organization(s) that operated, supervised, or controlled the supporting organization? If "Yes," explain in Part VI how providing such benefit carried out the purposes of the supported organization(s) that operated, supervised, or controlled the supporting organization.  2

Section C. Type II Supporting Organizations

1 Were a majority of the organization's directors or trustees during the tax year also a majority of the directors or trustees of each of the organization's supported organization(s)? If "No," describe in Part VI how control or management of the supporting organization was vested in the same persons that controlled or managed the supported organization(s).  1

Section D. All Type III Supporting Organizations

1 Did the organization provide to each of its supported organizations, by the last day of the fifth month of the organization's tax year, (i) a written notice describing the type and amount of support provided during the prior tax year, (ii) a copy of the Form 990 that was most recently filed as of the date of notification, and (iii) copies of the organization's governing documents in effect on the date of notification, to the extent not previously provided?

2 Were any of the organization's officers, directors, or trustees either (i) appointed or elected by the supported organization(s) or (ii) serving on the governing body of a supported organization? If "No," explain in Part VI how the organization maintained a close and continuous working relationship with the supported organization(s).

3 By reason of the relationship described in (2), did the organization's supported organizations have a significant voice in the organization's investment policies and in directing the use of the organization's income or assets at all times during the tax year? If "Yes," describe in Part VI the role the organization's supported organizations played in this regard.  3

Section E. Type III Functionally Integrated Supporting Organizations

1 Check the box next to the method that the organization used to satisfy the Integral Part Test during the year (see instructions).
   a The organization satisfied the Activities Test. Complete line 2 below.
   b The organization is the parent of each of its supported organizations. Complete line 3 below.
   c The organization supported a governmental entity. Describe in Part VI how you supported a government entity (see instructions).

2 Activities Test. Answer (a) and (b) below.
   a Did substantially all of the organization's activities during the tax year directly further the exempt purposes of the supported organization(s) to which the organization was responsive? If "Yes," then in Part VI identify those supported organizations and explain how these activities directly furthered their exempt purposes, how the organization was responsive to those supported organizations, and how the organization determined that these activities constituted substantially all of its activities.
   b Did the activities described in (a) constitute activities that, but for the organization's involvement, one or more of the organization's supported organization(s) would have been engaged in? If "Yes," explain in Part VI the reasons for the organization's position that its supported organization(s) would have engaged in these activities but for the organization's involvement.

3 Parent of Supported Organizations. Answer (a) and (b) below.
   a Did the organization have the power to regularly appoint or elect a majority of the officers, directors, or trustees of each of the supported organizations? Provide details in Part VI.
   b Did the organization exercise a substantial degree of direction over the policies, programs, and activities of each of its supported organizations? If "Yes," describe in Part VI the role played by the organization in this regard.
Part V  Type III Non-Functionally Integrated 509(a)(3) Supporting Organizations

1. Check here if the organization satisfied the Integral Part Test as a qualifying trust on Nov. 20, 1970 (explain in Part VI). See instructions. All other Type III non-functionally integrated supporting organizations must complete Sections A through E.
