

Summer 2021 EJA Fellow:

Name: Sabrina Geisler

Law School: Boston University School of Law

Organization: Project Citizenship

Update 1: June 14, 2021

As an Equal Justice America fellow and having an interest in immigration law, this summer I have been working for Project Citizenship in Boston.

Having always been passionate about immigration law, this summer I feel fortunate to be a legal intern at a nonprofit that does amazing work and helps with the citizenship process. One of my favorite experiences so far has been helping with application workshops and helping to complete citizenship applications. I am excited to continue working at Project Citizenship and am passionate about the work they do.

Update 2: June 28, 2021

While interning at Project Citizenship this summer, I have gotten experience with legal immigration work and have gotten to help in workshops and help to complete citizenship applications. After starting in May and now with July almost being here, I realize I have learned a lot about immigration law and gotten better and more efficient at my work assigned. I am also learning a lot about the citizenship process and laws behind it. I am so thankful for this opportunity to work at Project Citizenship and am excited to continue working there this summer.

Update 3: July 12, 2021

Since interning at Project Citizenship this summer, I have learned much about immigration law and the legal process behind becoming a U.S. Citizen. I have gained so much legal experience since May, and I am so thankful for this opportunity. I am excited to continue learning this summer interning at Project Citizenship.

Update 4: August 2, 2021

As my internship is coming to an end, I have been reflecting on my experience working for Project Citizenship and am super grateful to have had this opportunity. I have learned much about immigration law and have gotten a lot of experience through taking on new responsibilities each week and learning about the immigration process through my work. I have gotten to help with legal representation at citizenship interviews, have helped with drafting and editing various legal documents, and have helped to answer client questions via email or on the phone. From starting as a 1L last fall and now having this legal internship, I feel like I have learned so much and am excited to continue in the legal field and continue learning about immigration law.

I am so thankful to EJA for helping with summer funding and making this experience possible. To help other legal interns doing similar work, please consider donating.
