

EQUAL JUSTICE AMERICA

Summer 2022 EJA Fellow:

Name: Tim Rosenberger

Law School: Stanford

Organization: Metropolitan Community Church

Update 1:

Grateful for the opportunity to serve with the great people Equal Justice America. They make it possible for students like me to engage in public interest legal work during our law school summers. Learning a great deal and working to end homelessness.

Update 2:

Grateful to be serving in my community this summer with such a dedicated team of public service lawyers. This summer, I'm getting to see how things usually run (sans pandemic). Ever more impressed by the dedicated PI lawyers who used zoom, phone calls, and parking lot meetings to carry us through the last two years!

Update 3:

This week my team and I helped a family retain housing that otherwise would have been lost. I am so grateful to have the chance to commit my summer to this kind of exciting and mission driven work. I'm learning a ton and so grateful to Equal Justice America.

Update 4:

This week I got to connect with absolute legend Scotty McLennan. Before serving as a University Chaplain for decades, Scotty used his training in divinity and at Harvard Law School to provide direct legal services to people in Boston. As I've been trying to discern what kind of career in PI law makes the most sense for the needs I see in the world, I've been blessed to have the opportunity to do direct legal service this summer and see great examples of what this career can be. Scotty said the answers won't be easy, but if you just love people, you'll make a difference.

Update 5:

It is hard to believe that another summer of public interest law is almost in the books. I've had a wonderful experience this summer and am tremendously grateful to EJA for giving me the chance to work with MCCWR and Metropolitan Community Church. These groups are doing vitally important work to help people of modest means. This summer has shown me that this is the kind of work I need to do after graduation.
