RE: Victoria Johnson

Dear Mr. Ruben,

Victoria Johnson worked as a law student intern at Greater Boston Legal Services in the CORI project. In our work at the CORI Project we make a lasting impact in client's lives because sealing their criminal records creates opportunities in housing, employment and education. She worked diligently this summer to assist clients in sealing their criminal records. Victoria's tasks included legal research, drafting affidavits and documents for court hearings and staffing intake clinics at district court houses. She was able to perform her assigned tasks well and developed a great repertoire with clients. She carried herself with a professional demeanor at community events and completed her assigned tasks.

The CORI Project was able to assist more clients and work more efficiently because of her help. During Victoria's fellowship her writing improved and she completed her research assignments with short notice when needed for legislative advocacy. We are grateful for your assistance with funding and enthusiastic that during this fellowship we were able to create a learning experience for Victoria.

Sincerely,

Pauline Quirion Project Director CORI & Reentry Project
