

Summer 2021 EJA Fellow:

Name: David Leeds

Law School: Georgetown University Law Center

Organization: Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia

Update 1:

I am so excited to be an Equal Justice America fellow this summer at the Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia! EJA provides support for law students working at legal aid providers across the country. Their support is crucial for making equal access to counsel a reality, and not just an aspiration. Please consider contributing to EJA's vital work!

Update 2:

Right now, Equal Justice America is raising money to support its mission of placing law students at legal service providers across the country. Please consider making a contribution today! EJA's work is crucial to expanding access to free legal assistance, and I am proud to be an EJA Fellow with Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia. Everything helps!

Update 3:

Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia is committed to making justice real. Thanks to Equal Justice America, I have had the honor of working closely with some of its most outstanding attorneys in fighting to keep DC residents in safe and affordable housing. This work is especially crucial now that the Public Health Emergency is set to wind down, which will leave thousands of tenants vulnerable to evictions and similar lawsuits. Please consider supporting EJA's mission during this pivotal moment.

Entry 4:

Thank you so much to Equal Justice America for their incredible support this summer as I interned with the Housing Unit at the Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia! EJA's support is so crucial to making sure that law students across the country have the resources they need to pursue opportunities in public interest law. Please chip in to support their fundraising efforts as they help the next generation of lawyers from Georgetown University Law Center and other great schools to fight for justice.
