Name: Trevor Kirby

Law School: University of Pennsylvania Law School

Organization: The Public Interest Law Center

Update 1:

Excited to share my first EJA Fellow update! I am grateful to have been generously selected as one of this year's Equal Justice America Fellows, and am currently working out of Philly with the Public Interest Law Center. I'm officially one month into my summer internship, working primarily on environmental justice and issues surrounding educational funding and transparency. The staff attorneys at PILC are phenomenal, and I look forward to one incredible, impactful, and educational summer.

Update 2:

These past two weeks at the Public Interest Law Center have been fantastic. I have had the opportunity to support educational transparency and reform efforts, write about the regulation of municipal bank lien sales to third parties, and speak with leading practitioners from the Philly area.

Update 3:

As my summer internship comes to a close, I am realizing just how lucky I have been to work with dedicated, bright, and community-minded attorneys at The Public Interest Law Center. As a former TFA corps member, it has been rejuvenating to conduct research on areas involving public education, school funding, and charterization in the state of Pennsylvania.

Entry 4:

Excited to return to the University of Pennsylvania Law School having completed my internship with The Public Interest Law Center. PILC is an incredible organization based in Philadelphia and staffed by passionate attorneys committed to legal aid in Pennsylvania.

Consider supporting Equal Justice America, a non-profit organization funding opportunities for law students to work with civil legal aid organizations.
